ROOSEVELT IS SEVERE WITH HENRY

Orders Him Back to Oregon to Try the Sleeping Land Cases

Intimates His Function Is Not to Regulate the Politics and Public Business of Whole Country.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—January 18th is the date set for the trial of the land fraud cases in Oregon. This announcement was made last night by Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, the special representative of the Department of Justice who has for some time been investigating the Oregon land fraud cases and who will assist in conducting the trial of these cases. This decision was arrived at to day at a conference between Attorney-General Bonaparte and Heney held on their way to Washington from Chicago where the two men met.

An important conference was held at the White House last night between President Roosevelt and Heney at which the status of the land fraud cases in Oregon was considered, but Heney declined to say what was the result of his talk with the President. Heney expects to leave for Portland, Ore., tomorrow.

AFTER SENATOR FULTON

Reports have it that Heney is here on the trial of Senator Fulton of Oregon. He is also said to be sore over the withdrawal by the President of the nomination of District Attorney Bristol. His remarks to day made it sufficiently clear that he intended to expose the facts he learned about Senator Fulton while probing into the graft in the case against former District Attorney Hall. Heney said his investigation had brought to light some things that might place a few men of prominence in an embarrassing position.

Bristol was appointed on recommendation of Heney. Bristol's predecessor was removed at the instigation of Heney who alleged to the President that he was not in sympathy with the prosecution of the land thieves and was thwarting efforts to bring them to justice.

BUSY WITH GRAFT

While Heney busied himself with the graft prosecutions in San Francisco, Bristol allowed the land fraud cases in Oregon to sleep on the calendar. After the cases had been postponed several times the President summarily withdrew the appointment of Bristol and ordered an immediate prosecution of the Oregon land cases.

Heney should have been in Washington on the 8th of December to look after certain land cases in which he is special government attorney, but he deferred going till the trial of Thad L. Ford was concluded.

PRESIDENT ANGERED

It is said that the President sharply reminded Heney that he was not employed by the government to regulate politics and public business all over the country and that his activity in so many directions was discrediting the administration and embarrassing the department of justice. Heney was much chagrined at the reproof and is deeply wroth at the Senators from California, Oregon and Idaho to whom he ascribes his call down. He hints darkly at things he's going to do to Senators Fulton and Senator Borah, but here in Washington he is regarded very much in the light of a blustering frontier hoodlum. Fulton and Borah decline to discuss Heney or his threats further than to say they are attending to their public duties without regard to what Heney may say or do.

FIRE AMONG XMAS TREES ENDANGERS 250 CRIPPLES

Children Narrowly Escape Injury When Home Takes Fire

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Two hundred and fifty crippled children narrowly escaped injury early today in a fire which started in the kitchen of a tenement building. One of the houses was gutted and 11 children on Lexington avenue, the flames were discovered and subdued by Superintendent Bartine and nurses before the smoke could get out. The superintendent kept up a good watch over the yards that none of the sleeping children knew of the blaze until it was all over. The loss is considerable and new Christmas decorations will replace those destroyed in time for tomorrow's celebration.

HIGH NAVAL CHIEF HANDS IN RESIGNATION

Act of Rear Admiral Brownson,
Head of Navigation Bureau,
Creates Surprise.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—President Roosevelt today received and accepted the resignation of Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson as chief of the bureau of navigation.

The resignation takes effect immediately and Captain Cameron McR. Winslow has been appointed to succeed the admiral.

No reason for the resignation is given at the White House.

SEEK RELEASE OF LOUIS GLASS ON BAIL

Attorneys Ask Leave to Make Showing That His Physical Condition Is Poor.

(Special to The Tribune)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—Attorney T. C. Coogan, representing Louis Glass, convicted of extortion in Judge Lawlor's department some time ago, appeared in court this morning accompanied by Drs. Hurley and Williamson to make a showing as to Mr. Glass' physical condition in order to have him admitted to bail.

Owing to the fact that the defendant was not present in court, Attorney O'Gara representing the prosecution asked that Mr. Coogan furnish him with affidavits on Thursday next, saying that he would make a counter showing and serve affidavits on Mr. Coogan in turn on the following Monday, the matter then to be argued in court on Tuesday, December 31st.

As this was satisfactory to the Court, the order was made accordingly. Attorney Coogan will make an effort to show that Glass is suffering from a disease which if he is kept in confinement may cause his death.

It is probable that Judge Lawlor will himself appoint physicians to examine Mr. Glass and report to him the exact physical condition of the accused.

Thousands See Big Fleet at Port of Spain

Anchored in Four Column Formation—People Preparing Royal Welcome.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Perry Adm. Evans has reported to the Navy Department the arrival of the battleship fleet at 11 o'clock yesterday.

The Admiral's message was brief, simply announcing the arrival at that place of the first and second squadrons of the fleet and the admira's tender the Yankton.

In the absence of any word to the contrary, the inference at the Navy Department according to the naval code is that all are well on board the vessels of the fleet.

THOUSANDS SEE SHIPS

PORTE SPAIN, TRINIDAD, Dec. 24.—Port of Spain is preparing to welcome the American fleet of battleships with its pitiful and good fellowship.

Daylight showed the warships anchored in four column formation about four miles from the wharf. The people crowded the water front to view the imposing array of white ships of war. Entertainment committees completed their arrangements and the town rapidly took on its best holiday attire.

Conductor Refused a Clearing-House Certificate, Which Started Fight.

(Special to The Tribune)

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—Four men were more or less seriously injured as the result of a street car riot at the corner of Seventh and Market streets at 8:15 o'clock this morning, growing out of the refusal of a conductor to accept a Clearing-House certificate in payment of fare.

The motorman came to his companion's assistance and began to strike right and left with a controller bar. D. Wessel of Larkspur and Frederick Adams of San Anselmo were badly cut about the head and face and were thrown from the car.

Several other persons were also injured in the general fight which ensued. After the atmosphere had cleared the car proceeded on its way and Adams and Wessel went to the hospital for treatment. They later reported the affair to the police and an officer was detailed to arrest the carmen.

ATTACKS WOMAN'S DEFENSE

"There's No Such Thing as Temporary Insanity," Says Expert in Scully Case.

"There is no such thing as temporary insanity," testified Dr. J. W. Robertson this morning during the trial of Olive Scully for the murder of James F. Glover.

His statement, if accepted by the jury, will demolish the accused woman's defense that, at the time she threw vitriol into the eyes of Glover, causing his death thereby, she was temporarily out of her mind. Dr. Robertson is considered one of the greatest experts on the subject of insanity in the State and conducts a sanitarium for insane patients at Livermore.

Assistant District Attorney Hynes then asked the question: "Is there any such thing as temporary insanity?"

After answering that there is no such condition Dr. Robertson went on to explain that insanity is a lasting condition.

There is such a thing as temporary or emotional insanity."

ACCUSED BANKERS NOT READY TO PLEAD

Brown and Bartnett Arraigned in Court on Charges of Embezzlement.

(Special to The Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—J. Dalziel Brown and Walter J. Bartnett were arraigned in Judge Dunn's court this morning on a charge of embezzlement preferred through an indictment by the Grand Jury.

Brown was the first to be arraigned and during the long reading of the legal documents by the clerk he stood with an expressionless face, apparently unmoved by the proceedings. On the other hand, when Bartnett stood up for arraignment he gave every sign of nervousness, and although at first he tried to calm himself, the effect of the reading of the accusation against him seemed to make him literally shake with emotion.

Neither defendant pleaded to the charge and by consent of counsel for both sides, January 2 was set as the date for the pleading. Just before the adjournment of court, Attorney Hiram Johnson, representing Brown, requested that his client be allowed to spend an hour or so with him in consultation at his office. The court granted the petition, and Attorney Oscar Cooper asked and was allowed the same privilege for Bartnett.

B. P. Oliver, newly elected president of the insolvent bank, made a formal demand upon Bartnett this morning while the latter was in court for the 15,000 thousand shares of Western Pacific stock belonging to the bank, but in place of which was found a receipt from Bartnett for the stock. The latter informed Oliver that the stock was at present in New York and would at once be forwarded to this city.

Mrs. Bartnett, who came to the court to see her husband, was subpoenaed by the district attorney's office to appear before the grand jury Friday afternoon and testify. Assistant District Attorney Cook declined to state what testimony was expected from Mrs. Bartnett.

It is understood that Attorneys Cooper and Gray will make a last effort to procure a conviction today. It is said that they have almost all the securities they need promised and they have every hope of freeing their clients for the holidays.

Attorney Hiram Johnson, representing Brown, took occasion to make a denial of the report printed by a local newspaper, to the effect that his client had failed in playing the rates.

"He has done such things about Mr. Brown," said Attorney Johnson. "He has enough to bear already. In all the time he has been in California, Mr. Brown has only once visited a horse and has never at any time wagered any money on them."

Stockholders Aim to Start New Bank on Ruins of Old One

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—The appointment of a committee of four to devise plans for rehabilitating the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company was decided upon at a meeting of the stockholders at the headquarters of the Stock and Exchange Board yesterday afternoon.

O. M. Galarceca admitted that a plan was being formulated by which it was hoped to secure aid from different banks and trust companies in the work of rehabilitation.

The 300 stockholders of the bank were made defendants yesterday in suits filed in two Justice courts to compel the payment of deposits. Eugene Stedler and the Marine Cooks and Stewards Association are suing to recover $9129 and the Alaska Fishermen's Union to recover $1,226.

The committee on rehabilitation of the executive committee of twenty-one last night recommended the establishment of another bank, under a new name, out of the remains of the old one. It was proposed that the capital stock be increased to $10,000,000, at $50 a share, and that new stock be issued to present stockholders taking their present claims on the bank at fifty per cent of their value.

The committee recommended that a new holding company be organized to control the industrials, and that it be separate and distinct from the bank.

Bank's Lumber Co. Will Be Taken by the Bondholders

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—The control of the Eldorado lumber company, a California Safe Deposit and Trust Company enterprise worth in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, may pass entirely from the depositors of the defunct bank and thereby reduce materially the value of the assets on which the depositors may recover. The holders of the bonds of the lumber company are prepared to take over the property to satisfy their claims, amounting to $350,000. Of this amount less than one-third is held by the bank itself. The rest is in the hands of private parties.

The lumber company is considered a good property normally worth more than $1,000,000, but of far less value in its present embarrassed conditions. The holders of the bonds believe that they will be able to obtain the full value of their claims. The depositors naturally will suffer, as they will be compelled to accept what is left after the claims of the bond holders have been satisfied. The bonds constitute first mortgage on the property.

CREDITORS ATTACH TWO HOMES OF BROWN

San Francisco Residence and Lakeport House in Hands of the Sheriff.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 24.—Attachments have been levied in behalf of preferred creditors against the $50,000 residence of J. Dalziel Brown on Washington street in this city as also against his $100,000 estate at Lakeport.

The attachment on the Washington street residence was levied by Attorneys Harding and Monroe on behalf of George A. Perrine, the capitalist, who had advanced Brown $50,000. The attachment on the Lakeport acres was filed on behalf of Henry Stringle, to whom $27,000 is still due on a contract to purchase the property.

A deputy sheriff was placed at Brown's Washington street home, but after a time he was withdrawn. The attorneys do not desire to dispossess Mrs. Brown and will let the matter take its normal course in the courts.

When Brown purchased the Union National Bank of Oakland he borrowed $50,000 from Perrine, giving as security stock in the bank. Brown has paid $11,000 of this sum and $38,000 is still due. In order to protect their client, Harding & Monroe filed the attachment yesterday and took the formal steps which they believe will give Perrine a primary claim on the property.

Brown secured the Lakeport property from Henry Stringle. The estate consists of 2000 acres, which are said to be worth $75,000. The improvements on the place bring the total to more than $100,000. Brown did not buy the property outright, but obtained possession on a contract to purchase. By the arrangement entered into with Stringle the entire place was to revert to the original owner in case Brown should default on the payments and the sum of $27,000 is still due. Under the contract the entire property reverts to Stringle. Title never passed to Brown.

Mrs. Minerva J. Sweeney, who seeks divorce.

Sensational Charges Made by Mrs. Minerva J. Sweeney Who Says Husband Threatened to Blacken Her Character.

The threat that he "would blacken her name from the Atlantic to the Pacific," and the unjust accusation that her relations with B. L. Spence, manager of the A. J. Snyder Real Estate Company, were not proper, alleged to have been made by the Rev. George W. Sweeney, former pastor of the First Christian Church, are made the basis of a sensational divorce suit that has been brought by Mrs. Minerva J. Sweeney.

Sweeney left Oakland several weeks ago and is now in Chicago.

MRS. SWEENEY RETICENT.

When seen at her home, 1314 Arch street, Berkeley, Mrs. Sweeney said:

"I have placed my case in the hands of Attorney Moore, and not even my intimate friends have been aware of the filing of the complaint. I do not care to discuss the question. Everything will be told later unless some different action is taken. My husband is now in the East, but he and I did not reach a mutual agreement relative to the divorce case proceedings. We have not lived together for some time."

B. L. Spence, who is manager of the A. J. Snyder Real Estate Company, said: "I believe that the Rev. Mr. Sweeney was suffering from mental aberration when he charged me with alienating the affections of his wife. He did threaten to shoot me, but afterward he came to me and retracted his statements and apologized and begged forgiveness.

WILL NOT CONTEST SUIT.

"Mr. Sweeney will not contest the divorce proceedings.

"Mrs. Sweeney has been a friend of both my wife and myself for years. The two women are the closest of friends and were shopping together this afternoon. I guess if my friend with Mrs. Sweeney had been anything but proper my wife and Mrs. Sweeney would not be sure claims."

"So far as we are concerned," said Mrs. Spence, "there is no importance in this suit. My husband and I are in full accord and we are also in accord with Mrs. Sweeney in declaring that there is no foundation for the insinuation against Mr. Spence, and hence we will not contest the suit."

Her husband told her, Mrs. Sweeney alleges that Spence had confessed improper relations. On this occasion, she says, he exhibited a loaded revolver and said that he would kill Spence next day. Later, on the occasion of another quarrel, he told her, according to the complaint, that he would ruin her reputation from one end of the country to the other.

Several times, Sweeney threatened to throw his wife out of the window, she declares. Their quarrels were frequent. Once he is said to have commanded her to write an abusive letter to one of her relatives, and when she refused, he would confess his infidelity.

Plaintiff and defendant are wealthy and prominent. Mrs. Sweeney has valuable property at Franklin and Tenth streets, and is reputed to be worth $150,000. What Is Said of THE TRIBUNE'S Great Annual Edition

THE annual Christmas edition of THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE, which appeared last Sunday, has evoked the praise of residents of this city, Berkeley and Alameda, as well as those of San Francisco and other places where this paper is largely circulated. On all sides may be heard utterances of commendation and applause, and expressions of congratulation to THE TRIBUNE for the excellence of the edition and the manner in which it reflects the spirit of Great Oakland, the spirit of eternal progress.

These expressions of praise and goodwill come from men in every walk of life, who declare their pride in Oakland and in what THE TRIBUNE has done and ever will do to promote the best interests of the community.

Here are some of the opinions expressed:

SUPERVISOR MITCHELL:—"THE TRIBUNE has always gotten out good Christmas numbers but I am inclined to the belief that that of yesterday was the best of the series. It had a great variety of interesting reading matter and much that will be of effect in setting forth abroad the advantages of Alameda county. It will also impress strangers to the effect that there is something in a community which can get out such a publication."

SUPERVISOR HORNER:—"I don't want any better paper than THE TRIBUNE which was published yesterday. It was equal to the best. They don't publish any better papers. There was reading matter enough in it for a month. The showing of the resources of Alameda county was excellent."

COUNTY SURVEYOR HAVILAND:—"I read THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE with interest almost from beginning to end. Every department was interesting and complete. It was a paper of which Alameda county should be proud."

SUPERVISOR BRIDGE:—"When Oakland can get out a paper like THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE, it shows that metropolitanism has come to stay in the community. The excellence of the paper was commented on by everybody. I saw more copies of it in the hands of people yesterday than I did of any other Christmas number."

SUPERVISOR KELLEY:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a great publication. But then I expected a great one from THE TRIBUNE management. The paper was worthy of the county."

DR. CLARK, of the County Firm:—"I could not read THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE in a day. There were so many good things in it that I have laid it aside to take it up again from day to day until I shall have gone through it."

A. JONAS, The Hub:—"A great deal of credit is due W. E. Dargle for the publication. He has always shown in the interest of Oakland and Alameda county. And to think back thirty years ago when he started THE TRIBUNE—he certainly has bought THE TRIBUNE not alone to his credit to Oakland, but to credit to the entire State of California. Well done friend Dargle."

FARLEY GRANGER:—"I am going to buy a number of copies of THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE and send them back East. A better showing of this county could not be desired than that made in THE TRIBUNE."

NEIL McKEON:—"I thought THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was one of the best paper of the kind that I ever read. It was complete in every department and the expense of getting it out must have been enormous."

MALL TOBRINGER:—"THE TRIBUNE of yesterday was the greatest paper ever gotten out in Alameda county. I read everything in it. I kept at it nearly the whole day."

PAUL GOLDSMITH:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was an excellent and a readable paper."

A. J. SNYDER:—"You can write anything you want that is superlatives in the matter of the excellence of THE CHRISTMAS number and I will subscribe to the sentiment. It was excellent in every way."

FRANK C. WATSON, real estate:—"THE TRIBUNE for Christmas was a magnificent publication. There seemed to be no department which was not filled to overflowing with interesting matter. The information which it contained about this city and county was complete and, if circulated abroad, would do a great deal of good to this section."

FRED SEULBERGER, florist:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a great piece of work. If many copies of it should be sent to the East what a flock of people would come to this city and county. I read it all through and will send a number of copies of it to relatives and friends that I have in the East."

W. G. PALMANTEER, vice-president and Manager of the Central Bank:—"There is no doubt about it. THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was as fine a paper as any person would care to read. It reflects great credit in the management of the paper and the city in which it was published."

GUY SMITH, theatrical manager:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was the finest paper that you have yet published. Nobody can deny that fact."

FRED A. CAMPBELL, real estate:—"I want to say that I consider THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was the finest ever published in the city. It was a great piece of work."

F. J. JOHNSON, electro plating:—"I read THE TRIBUNE all through on Sunday last. It was an undertaking, but the paper was so interesting that I could not lay it down until I had finished it. That paper can do a great deal of good for this city. I am going to send some copies of it away and let my friends know what we have here, what kind of publications we can get out."

POLICE JUDGE MORTIMER SMITH, of Police Court No. 1:—"THE TRIBUNE issues so fine a paper every day that I really expected the CHRISTMAS number would be a paper which would be a credit to everybody connected with it. The issue was greatly superior to what I had expected. I can speak of it only in superlatives. The city of Oakland ought to be proud in possessing a paper which can insure respect wherever it goes."

GEORGE MEREDITH, cashier, of Farmers' and Merchants' Savings Bank:—"I think that THE TRIBUNE issued on Sunday last was a remarkable publication. I thought that the Christmas number would be a great one, and it was a great one, greater than I expected. I read the greater part of it with interest."

J. S. JOSELYN, secretary of the Harbor League:—"There are some things one feels a pride in commanding, especially so when it is in a good cause and bound to bring results. The annual Christmas edition of THE TRIBUNE will do much to foster the upbuilding of Oakland and vicinity for it gives an insight to what is here as it has never been told before and Oakland will reap a great benefit from its circulation."

JOSEPH J. ROSEROUGH, of Calanico-Roseborough Co.:—"This wonderful Christmas edition of THE TRIBUNE came to us just at the right moment. It has enabled us, for instance, to gain on short notice some forcible arguments. We are now working on a very large deal involving about $100,000 here in Oakland, and as these interested are Easterners and San Francisco capitalists, we have been compelled to obtain a large amount of data. This edition has helped us. We also think this edition is a great thing to interest Eastern investors, especially some of the 17,500 that registered at the recent carnival at Idora Park. I feel gratified that we have an edition that sets forth the facts and ably substantiates all we said to all the hundreds of people that we met personally."

H. E. BROWN, president Builders' Exchange:—"The annual Xmas edition of THE TRIBUNE is one of the finest papers I have seen published on the coast in the twenty years I have been here and will be a big thing in the future development of the city of Oakland and its interests."

HOWARD OSGOOD, of Osgood Bros.:—"The Christmas edition of THE TRIBUNE was very fine indeed. It was first-class in every respect. Thousands of copies of it ought to be sent away. They would do an untold amount of good to this city and country."

ROBERT LECKIE, president of Realty Title Co.:—"The edition of THE TRIBUNE for Christmas was a very fine paper. It was, in fact, wonderful in every respect."

ARTHUR HOLLAND, of Stocker, & Holland, Searchers of Records:—"I think that THE TRIBUNE, which was issued for Christmas, was really one of the very finest holiday papers that I ever saw. It was interesting in every department. There were not only a great many interesting articles on a variety of subjects, but there was also more than the usual amount of news of the day from all parts of the world."

WILLIAM WALSH, grocer:—"I have been a subscriber to THE TRIBUNE for so many years that I can hardly recall the time when I did not have my name on the list. I assure you that I did not miss THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE. I have not finished reading it yet. I never saw a more interesting paper. It is a great thing for Oakland to say that there is a publication of that excellence in this city. I have mailed a number of copies of it to friends of mine in the eastern part of the country."

CHARLES OTT, Street Department:—"It was one of the greatest papers that I ever saw at this or any other season of the year."

THOMAS PRATHER, capitalist:—"THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL was a great paper. There is no making a mistake on that point."

DU RAY SMITH, Searcher of Records:—"Your CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a very fine and elegant paper. Oakland is a great city and THE TRIBUNE is its prophet."

A. KAYSOR, insurance:—"THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL was a great paper. I am a publisher myself and I know how much work there was in the getting out of such a paper. Who would have thought, ten years ago, that THE TRIBUNE would be able to issue such a paper? In fact, who would have thought such a thing even five years ago, although the paper has, for a number of years, been climbing in the journalistic world in a most amazing manner. I always have liked THE TRIBUNE and, when I was away, a few months ago, I had the paper sent to me abroad. Regardless of the irregularity of the foreign walls, I received it pretty often. I assure you that it was appreciated. It kept me as well informed as if I were still in this city. I knew where Mr. Kahler of Hansen & Kahler of this city was staying over there, because he was in Europe at the same time and I used to send him the paper after I had finished reading it. He, in turn, used to send it to John Martens, also of this city, who was in another part of Europe and both of those gentlemen were delighted to hear from their friends through THE TRIBUNE."

JOHN R. GLASCOOK, attorney:—"I am always interested in the progress of the newspapers of this city and, in a special manner, of THE TRIBUNE. The advancement of a newspaper is to be looked upon as an index to the development of the community in which it is published. Viewed from this standpoint, people abroad cannot but have an enlightened view of the importance and the intelligence of Oakland."

D. E. VON ADELUNG:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a great paper. It was worthy of Greater Oakland."

WILBER WALKER, Secretary of the Merchants' Exchange:—"I think, as usual, that THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was on a par with anything that it has published, at this time, before. It was especially valuable in setting forth the advantages of this vicinity and State, but THE TRIBUNE always does anything that it can in that line."

W. W. GARTHWAITE, vice-president of the Oakland Bank of Savings:—"I read THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE all through. I do not often do that with papers, but I found it very instructive and entertaining."

CHARLES NEWMAN, of the College Inn:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a great paper. I have just sent a dozen copies of it to various parts of the country where I have friends residing and I am satisfied that every one of these copies will be appreciated in the highest degree."

A. L. MCPHERSON, mining:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a great paper. I found in it a great deal more than I could read, but there was something of interest in it for everybody."

CHAS. G. MONROE, acting president Tiff & Pennoyer:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a very fine paper. It was, I think, one of the finest ever gotten out. I hope that THE TRIBUNE will help to oppose the idea of greater San Francisco. That was the theme of one of the papers that was issued on that day over there. I am glad THE TRIBUNE is in favor of a Greater Oakland. I believe in a Greater Oakland but it is by the consolidation of the cities of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda. What would we get by joining with a city on the other side of the bay and four miles away? Nothing."

WM. FITZMAURICE, City Hall:—"I think that the Christmas number of THE TRIBUNE was the greatest paper that was ever published in this city. There was no finer published anywhere, that I know of."

F. J. LEA, of Lea's English Inn:—"I think this edition of THE TRIBUNE would be a credit to a city twice the size of Oakland and is a valuable advertising asset because of its large circulation."

J. E. MAUERHAN, manager of the Curtain store:—"I think taking it all in all, that THE TRIBUNE has got up the best annual edition I have ever seen. It comes nearer doing justice to the town than anything which has been published yet."

WALTER S. MACKAY:—"THE TRIBUNE'S annual is one of the finest things which could be gotten up for Oakland. I was very much impressed with the matter all through the town than anything which has been published yet."

H. MILLER, of Miller & Banta Co.:—"There is no business that will not be helped by THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL."

JAMES H. CLEARY, attorney:—"THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL is a magnificent piece of newspaper work and showed the pushing energy of THE TRIBUNE'S management, which has seized their opportunity in boosting Oakland as it has never been boosted before. The Annual edition of THE TRIBUNE is without question the most complete publication in every way that I have ever seen."

W. T. SATTERWHITE, attorney:—"The annual edition of THE TRIBUNE is full of local coloring and well written articles which have called forth much thought from the authors, who have worked zealously to make the Annual the success it proved to be. It was a great boost for Greater Oakland. In fact I dare say it was the greatest advertisement Oakland has ever received at the hands of any publication in California."

G. MOSBACHER:—"I think THE TRIBUNE'S annual was a credit to Oakland and was an honor to the management. It is the best advertisement the city could have."

E. LEHNHARDT:—"I was astonished at the wonderful advance Oakland has made in the past year. I knew the city had made large strides, but not until I read the annual edition of THE TRIBUNE did I fully comprehend how great the improvement was. Everyone should be proud to send such a paper to their friends."

A. I. SMILIE, manager of the Pierce Hardware Co.:—"THE TRIBUNE'S annual was the finest paper ever sent out of Alameda county. I have already sent copies of the paper to friends and relatives in the East and in Canada."

A. SCHLUETER:—"Such an edition as this Christmas number of THE TRIBUNE was just what Oakland needed—something which could be sent to people outside of the county who are interested in this city of ours. This annual is a fine one to send to those who are thinking of coming here for it shows the wonderful business opportunities offered and the beautiful and attractive homes which have been built."

P. W. MOOREHOUSE, of Hamilton & Moorehouse:—"Alameda county is a whole which will be benefited by THE TRIBUNE annual which is not only a work of art, but a clever and full exposition of the possibilities and advantages of Oakland."

D. A. CLARK, 2607 Benvenue Avenue, Berkeley:—"This is a rattling good edition. I have purchased a number of copies of the annual edition of THE TRIBUNE ready for mailing to friends in the East. It is the kind of a paper that helps the country in the right way."

H. S. HOWARD, editor of Courier:—"THE TRIBUNE is to be congratulated upon its annual edition. It shows the progress the county has made during the past year and the advancement along all lines. It emphasizes also the stand THE TRIBUNE has taken at all times to assist in every possible manner the advancement of Alameda county."

GEORGE SCHMIDT, of Schmidt Skilling Co.:—"The 1907 annual edition of THE TRIBUNE is one of the best annuals ever gotten up in this section. It is certainly a credit to the management and to Alameda county as well. It is well edited and the subject matter carefully chosen. I cannot say too much in praise of it."

A. L. DUBY, of Duby & Brune:—"It's the best thing that ever happened to Oakland, and the whole business community will benefit by it."

ROBERT M. FITZGERALD, Attorney-At-Law:—"It is exceedingly artistic and full of local coloring. It is a credit to the City of Oakland."

HUGH S. ALDRICH, Attorney-at-Law:—"THE TRIBUNE'S ANNUAL was a clever piece of newspaper work, showing conclusively the progress of Oakland and demonstrating to all thoughtful people the fact that Oakland has taken first place over all the cities of California and the Pacific Coast."

JUDGE H. L. BRADFORD:—"A well edited newspaper speaks volumes for the community that supports it. THE TRIBUNE is all that."

CHARLES MURCELL:—"THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL was the most comprehensive and up-to-date of any of its publications and excelled all others in points of interest in giving in detail splendid accounts of the resources of Alameda county."

W. H. DONOHUE, Assistant District Attorney:—"It is excellent and a great benefit to the county of Alameda."

AUSTIN LEWIS, Attorney-At-Law:—"THE TRIBUNE ANNUAL contained the most complete account of the resources of Alameda county that has yet been published."

JUDGE GEORGE SAMUEL:—"It is the best newspaper ever gotten out by THE TRIBUNE or any other publication of its kind."

W. H. L. HYNES, Assistant District Attorney:—"I am proud of THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE and I think the Annual was the greatest edition ever published by THE TRIBUNE, or any other publication."

COL. L. P. CRANE, of the Chamber of Commerce:—"The Christmas edition portrays in a clear and clean way the actual condition which exists in Alameda county and put Oakland in front rank where she belongs. The man who does not rely upon the press as an educator belongs to the most backward element. He is a fungus from the tombs of antiquity."

KHOSTETTER'S BITTERS:—"For valuable information in regard to your health, statistics, and some splendid jokes, get a copy of Hostetter's Almanac from your druggist. Also try the Bitters for Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Kidney Ills, Chills, Colds, and Malaria. It always cures."

FRANK COURANT:—"THE TRIBUNE outside itself, I heard a hundred people say the same thing."

GEORGE T. TROWBRIDGE, Real Estate Broker:—"It wants to congratulate you upon the splendid special edition you published today. It is the best edition of one of the best papers on the Pacific Coast. For many years I have been a property owner in Oakland and next to being on the ground all the time is to have your paper come each day. It keeps me in close touch with affairs. The people of Oakland should be proud of your success and proud of your success."

M. ISAACS:—"THE CHRISTMAS TRIBUNE was a credit to the management, the city and the county. It was a marvel in every respect."

FRANK P. KIMBALL, president of the Kimball Clothing Co.:—"As a progressive resident of Oakland, and eager to see its interests advanced, I am proud of THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE and its Christmas edition. I want to say that its material, its make-up and its press work were excellent."

LINCOLN CHURCH:—"THE TRIBUNE showed a spirit of enterprise in its annual edition that has never been equalled before."

FRANCIS FERRIER, of the Ferrier-Brock Co., President of Berkeley Trustees:—"THE TRIBUNE'S annual is all right. It shows remarkable enterprise and is strictly in keeping with the spirit of progress now abroad in this county. We are proud of it."

ADAM KELLNER, proprietor of Kellner harness shop, Berkeley:—"I have carefully read the annual edition of THE TRIBUNE, and am of the opinion that it would be difficult to improve upon it. The paper is one which, if circulated widely throughout the country, as it probably will be, will accomplish untold wonders for Berkeley, Oakland and Alameda county in general."

DISMISS JANITOR ON CHARGE OF GRAFT

Berkeley School Directors Decide Employee Was "Holding-up" His Assistant.

BERKELEY Dec. 24—W. F. Conady, head janitor in the Whittier school, was discharged by the School Board last night on the specific charges of tendering to his assistant a sum of money to cover up a rule of the department requiring him to turn over a fund of $40 a month allowed for help to his assistant Principal Glass. Conady said that he had paid $40 to his assistant, but had demanded $3 a week as the price of the job. This with Conady's regular share of $8 netted him an income of $10 a month.

Mr. Conady's Director Young, chairman of the school house committee who urged his summary dismissal at Directors' Far and Do-hue undertook Conady's defense. Dr. Fairair, director, said that Conady was a man of integrity, that he believed him to be innocent of the charge, but that he did not know of any fund of $40 monthly all well him for assistance was not done with the intent to be dishonest, but rather in ignorance of the regulation governing the janitor service and in the sense that he was truly entitled to the money.

Conady's friend made a caustic reply, insinuating that Conady had been guilty of graft, and that Acting President Young was responsible.

When the Director Far and Do-hue asked Director Young if he thought Conady was conducting himself well, Young replied, "I think he is doing me too good a service."

Yuletide Jinks Of Elks Are Enjoyed

ALAMEDA Dec. 24—Last night the Christmas Jinks of the local lodges of Elks were held at Woodward Hall. W. L. Hammon Jr., the exalted ruler of the lodge, was the master of ceremonies. There were a number of visitors from outside lodges at the Jinks. Among those who participated were the presidents of the lodges of the Hibernians, William Rogers, C. L. Colder, Frank Kilian and Henry Marine.

This afternoon the Christmas boxes for the poor were distributed about the city and sold many persons.

The lodges distributed about 100 Christmas boxes containing all sorts of provisions.

Director Crawford made a caustic reply, insinuating that Conady had been guilty of graft, and that Acting President Young was responsible.

When the Director Far and Do-hue asked Director Young if he thought Conady was conducting himself well, Young replied, "I think he is doing me too good a service."

TORNADO BLOWS A TRAIN FROM THE TRACK AND KILLS

BAGGAGEMAN DEAD AND PROBABLY TEN OTHERS PERSONS ARE INJURED.

DENVER Dec 24—A tornado blew a local passenger train off the track one mile north of Marshall Colorado, on the Colorado and Southern Railroad, shortly before noon today.

Pagageman Chiles of Denver was killed and eight or ten trainmen and passengers injured.

All wires in that direction are down. No details regarding the accident have been received.

A wrecking train has been sent to the scene of the accident.

ATTACK ON BRIDGE
NEWARK N. J. Dec 24—An attempt was made to blow up with dynamite the steel bridge of the Pennsylvania Railroad now in course of construction over the Erie tracks near the Hockensack River. A huge blast was run in the center of the bridge.

MAN IN A TRANCE SINGS WITH FINE VOICE

MONTCLAIR N. J. Dec 24—The man who sang like a bird in a cage, and was taken for more than a month last winter on a new platform, is again singing although he is unconscious.

Before he came on the man was known as a vocalist of some ability. Friends who have heard him sing say his trancelike voice is the most pleasant music they ever heard. He sings in his passion when he did.

While his singing would lead one to believe that the songs had been originally practiced none of his friends have heard him sing any of them before.

He is in fair physical condition.

RICHMOND SEEKS TO EXTEND LIMITS

RICHMOND Dec 24—The committee appointed by the Chamber of Commerce will meet Saturday evening to discuss the territory proposed to be annexed. It was decided to go to work on the following lines: Beginning at the north east corner of the present limits to 108 section 35 township 2 north range 5 west thence running to the property line on San Pablo creek, thence following San Pablo creek, the northeast corner of the F Blum property, lot 138 San Pablo Ranch, then southwesterly to the northeast corner of lot 85 of the San Pablo Ranch, then following San Pablo Ranch line, but westerly to the county line, thus enclosing the county line westerly to the present city boundary line.

The territory which it is the purpose of the committee to embrace in the annexation proceedings comprises about 1000 acres which is now contained in the present corporate limits of the city. This annexation, Siegel, San Pablo Schmidt, Village and the settlement in the neighborhood of the county line.

FAVOR MOVEMENT

The annexation committee which is composed of Col. Harry E. W. F. Smith, Mr. Conlon, A. J. Timmons, E. C. Bart, and H. H. Turley, is of the opinion that the people living within the area designated will generally favor the movement.

In the case where opposition has been formed, the firms are taken in such restrictions as will be made by the city government which will prohibit the keeping of any body to enter.

Former State Treasurer W. R. Day died today. He was witness to the trial of Captain S. G. Sharp L. S. Marshal and former State Treasurer, started the court and spectators by stating that three days before Goebel was killed he (Sharp) was given reliable information by prominent Democrats that the Democrats had ordered 2000 guns ammunition for the same and that men would be on hand to man the guns and Taylor and other Republican State officials would be forcibly ejected from office.

This he said was why armed Republicans were about the executive building and why State troops had been notified to be in readiness to move as he had communicated these facts to both Governor Taylor and Adjutant General Collier.

HIS CONCLUSIONS

The conclusions were as follows:

Events of collaboration as to the killing of ex-Governor Steunenberg as a separate transaction is not sufficient to constitute a conspiracy to commit number of crimes which includes as an incident or otherwise the killing involved can not be established by uncorroborative evidence of the use and evidence of conspiracy to commit a crime as a result of which the crime charged was committed.

And if so there is no sufficient corroborative evidence to convict the defendant.

URGES ACQUITTAL

The Hon. Attorney Augent argued the case briefly and then took up the Idaho statute providing for the prosecution of persons charged with a crime which Pittibone is being tried, arguing that it is unconstitutional.

Pittibone admitted that he had not concurred when court adjourned for the noon recess.

Captain Sharp testified that directly after the shooting of Goebel he went to Governor Taylor and offered his services to defend him. Governor Taylor directed him to take charge of the defense of the building which he did not allow any body to enter.

HIS CONCLUSIONS

The conclusions were as follows:

Events of collaboration as to the killing of ex-Governor Steunenberg as a separate transaction is not sufficient to constitute a conspiracy to commit number of crimes which includes as an incident or otherwise the killing involved can not be established by uncorroborative evidence of the use and evidence of conspiracy to commit a crime as a result of which the crime charged was committed.

And if so there is no sufficient corroborative evidence to convict the defendant.

URGES ACQUITTAL

The Hon. Attorney Augent argued the case briefly and then took up the Idaho statute providing for the prosecution of persons charged with a crime which Pittibone is being tried, arguing that it is unconstitutional.

Pittibone admitted that he had not concurred when court adjourned for the noon recess.

Captain Sharp testified that directly after the shooting of Goebel he went to Governor Taylor and offered his services to defend him. Governor Taylor directed him to take charge of the defense of the building which he did not allow any body to enter.

Former State Treasurer W. R. Day died today. He was witness to the trial of Captain S. G. Sharp L. S. Marshal and former State Treasurer, started the court and spectators by stating that three days before Goebel was killed he (Sharp) was given reliable information by prominent Democrats that the Democrats had ordered 2000 guns ammunition for the same and that men would be on hand to man the guns and Taylor and other Republican State officials would be forcibly ejected from office.

This he said was why armed Republicans were about the executive building and why State troops had been notified to be in readiness to move as he had communicated these facts to both Governor Taylor and Adjutant General Collier.

Canal and Railroad Building Compared.

It was to be expected that the statement recently made by V. G. Bogue, the chief engineer of the Western Pacific Railroad Company, to the effect that each month a larger volume of work is being done by the graders of the company's track between Oakland and Salt Lake City than is being done on the Panama canal, would be challenged. But Chief Engineer Bogue returns to the charge and sustains it with the figures. In his former statement he made the broad assertion that "for some months past the amount of work done each month on the Western Pacific has exceeded the work done during the same time on the Panama canal, where more than 30,000 men are employed." The number of men employed on the Western Pacific railroad is not given, but from former statements made regarding the progress of construction, it does not exceed probably 15,000, and possibly is not more than 10,000. The railroad company is, therefore, employing only one-third or one-half the number of construction hands that is being employed on the canal.

Bogue's challenger says the Panama canal engineers report removing 8,151,645 cubic yards during the first eleven months of the year, and the engineer replies that the Western Pacific gangs have removed during the same period 11,471,300 cubic yards, more than one-half of which was rock, or an excess over the canal results of 3,319,566 cubic yards. But the Western Pacific's operations have not been confined solely to grading the roadway, which is implied in the amount of material removed, as Engineer Bogue states in the following:

"In addition to the yardage moved the Western Pacific, during the same period, has driven over three miles of tunnels, most of which are lined, has built an immense amount of masonry, purchased and erected numerous steel bridges, has laid nearly 200 miles of main line track and ballasted most of it, has put up station buildings, water tanks, coal chutes and telegraph lines, and put 20 locomotives and 1,900 cars into service."

The difference in the results obtained in these two great undertakings is noteworthy, because it is doubtless due partly to the character of the labor employed in each locality. Most of the laborers working on the canal are Jamaica blacks, while the majority of those constructing the roadbed, tunneling and tracklaying for the Western Pacific are white men. But the main factor in producing the difference in results is doubtless the more invigorating climate of California, Utah and Nevada, through which the Western Pacific passes, where a laborer can do more than double the work that any of his own class can do in the enervating climate in the equatorial regions, and that without physical distress. Moreover, there is doubtless less loss of time, less interruption to work, along the line of the Western Pacific, through rainy weather, than along the line of the canal, where drenching showers are common throughout the year, all of which counts in the general results.

Greene and Gaynor, who conspired with Captain Oberlin M. Carter to defraud the government in the Savannah, Ga., harbor contracts, have failed to get a new trial, the United States Supreme Court having denied the petition for writs of certiorari. Carter, who was first convicted, served a term of five years in the military prison at Fort Leavenworth. Greene and Gaynor fled to Canada and managed for several years to delay extradition. The Canadian courts got at cross purposes over the extradition suits and that in such a way as to excite the strongest suspicion that the fugitives were using corrupt influences to defeat the ends of justice. An appeal was made to the British government, however, which quickly straightened out the tangle in the matter of judicial jurisdiction and facilitated extradition. Greene and Gaynor were soon after put on trial, found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $575,749, and to serve four years in the Georgia penitentiary. The fight to force these precious swindlers to disgorge their ill-gotten booty and pay the penalty of their misdeeds has been a hard and costly one to the Federal government, as it has covered a period of many years, but justice, though leaden-heeled, has finally triumphed.

Through some oversight, the Bank of Alvarado was omitted from the list of Alameda county banks in THE TRIBUNE Annual. It is one of the oldest and soundest banks in the county, and is flourishing apace. On August 15, 1906, its deposits amounted to $191,244.71. On July 31, 1907, the deposits amounted to $270,000, and they are reported to THE TRIBUNE today as amounting to $290,000. In other words, the deposits of the Bank of Alvarado have increased from July 31, 1906, to December 23, 1907, nearly $100,000. That speaks well for the prosperity of the people of Alvarado and its suburbs, as well as for the bank itself.

The Shah of Persia has signed the Magna Charta of the Persians. It differs from the Magna Charta of England in this respect: Instead of being an act dictated by an exclusive set—to wit: by the barons to King John, as at Runnymede—it has been wrung from the Shah by a parliament elected by the people under a constitution which his father gave to them, and which he, under the influence of the court reactionaries, wanted to repudiate. The incident indicates that there is strong hope for the regeneration of Persia.

William T. Stead of the Review of Reviewers is unquestionably right in assuming that the American battleship fleet is not a menace to Japan, but he is entirely off his base when he alleges that its presence in the Pacific is subordinating the United States to Japan by pledging the fleet (which he foolishly thinks the Japanese can destroy at its pleasure) to the security of the supremacy of Japan on the Pacific ocean. Stead is evidently in the sere and yellow leaf of life when he allows his judgment to be influenced by such a ridiculous deduction.

There can be no more acceptable Christmas or New Year's gift to send to your friends than THE TRIBUNE Annual for 1907. It contains just the information they want to get about Greater Oakland and Alameda county.

THE TRIBUNE wishes a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to all of its readers.

TERSE COMMENT BY PRESS OF THE COUNTRY

Naval Bureaus Under Fire.

Rear-Admiral George W. Melville, who was before his retirement Engineer in Chief of the United States navy, is reported to have grown very indignant over a magazine writer's adverse criticism of the character of our warships. Melville employs the opportunity to make a fierce attack on the heads of the naval bureaus. He asserts that a clique has been formed in Washington which wants to get control of the navy, just as the general staff has control of the army, and that these bureaucrats are now engaged in discrediting our warships in order to get the control of the navy out of the hands of the President and his advisers. "What do fighting officers of the navy," the rear-admiral asks, "know about the construction of a warship?" He answers the question himself by saying "not a bit more than the driver of a carriage knows about the making of a carriage he can drive so well."

In all probability Admiral Melville's indignation against the charges of faulty construction in the vessels constituting the battleship fleet may be warranted. But it is scarcely becoming in him to assail the heads of the navy bureaus now, as it is only four years since he retired from one of them himself. And it is a notorious fact whatever faults the more recently constructed battleships contain, the old-liners, such as the Texas, contained many more defects.

The trouble with nearly all our navy bureaus is that they are always behind the times in naval construction. It was so in Melville's time. It was the custom of the bureaus to copy the designs of the later types of the British warships instead of originating plans of their own. If any innovations were made in these foreign pines, they proved usually to be blunders. Instead of leading in naval construction and equipment the naval bureaus at Washington followed the lead of other naval designers and contractors. It is recalled that Admiral Melville declared some years before his retirement that crude petroleum could not be used as fuel for warships. Soon afterward the British Admiralty equipped some of the warships with fuel oil burning furnaces and proved their success. It was not until it had been demonstrated in the steamship Mariposa that fuel oil was economical and safe in long ocean voyages and scores of smaller vessels employed in the commerce of San Francisco bay were using crude petroleum instead of coal as fuel. That Melville took up the study of fuel oil for use in the navy. The report on the subject finally issued by his bureau was nearly all the results of the experiments of private shipowners in the mercantile marine of the country and not by the bureau of engineering.

Admiral Melville's attack on the naval bureaus, as they exist now, reads, therefore, very much like an attack on his own service as a bureaucrat. Probably what all of the naval bureaus in Washington need is a wholesome overhauling.

The Man Who Won for Chicago as the Convention City.

Two things were pretty evident around the Republican National Committee headquarters in the Shoreham just after Chicago had been selected as the convention city. One was that Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetts was given the credit for swinging the majority of votes to his choice, the Windy city, and the other was that "the presidential stock of Uncle Joe" Cannon took a mighty boost upward.

Politicians in Washington are giving Senator Crane all the credit for having engineered the fight for Chicago to a successful conclusion. This he did by following his usual quiet methods. He didn't shout about from the rooftops of the city on the lake, but fixed wires and laid pipes with such consummate skill as to win the admiration of the Illinois delegation, who had been downcast until the junior Senator from Massachusetts took a hand in the game.

Senator Warner of Missouri, who led the fight for Kansas City, was a little "put out" about the result. He met Senator Crane in the hotel lobby just before the vote was taken, when he realized defeat was inevitable for the Southwestern fellows.

"Look here, Crane, put me on to your program, will you," he said. "I don't exactly understand what's going on." Senator Crane's answer was a kind smile, but he vouchsafed no information.

Representative Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, who has been working night and day for Chicago, was jubilant. He called up Representative George P. Lawrence on the telephone to tell him the news. "Look here, Lawrence," he babbled, mirthfully, "that man Crane of yours, is a wonder. He turned the trick for us in great shape and did it so quietly that nobody knew what he was doing."

When the news of Chicago's victory reached the capital, the members reached the capital, the members seemed instinctively to take it as a boast for "Uncle Joe." They flocked to the speaker's room, offering congratulations, and many of them told him that if the convention were to meet the following day he would be given the nomination.—Boston Herald.

Is the Office Seeking the Man in the Case of Governor Hughes?

But it must be considered that Governor Hughes, as Dr. Barth says, has "done nothing to advertise himself as a Presidential candidate." On the contrary, he discourages activity on the part of his friends. That is an unusual phenomenon in our political affairs, and is receiving the curious attention of many observers. If the man and the office come together it will be because the office came to the man.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

How Germany's Elastic
Currency Works Under Various Conditions

Early in October, only a short time before the stringency became acute in New York, there was a sharp financial flurry at Berlin. It was not as acute as the trouble that came in New York later, but it was severe enough to cause much concern. Prices of securities fell, rates of interest rose, loans were to be had only on first-class securities, and there were several failures. But under the German system for emergency issues of currency, subject to a 5 per cent tax, and secured by sound collateral, the situation was easily controlled. The additional currency came forth in amounts sufficient for the needs of business, was withdrawn when not required, and ran forth again to meet new conditions. For example: On October 15 there was in round numbers $57,000,000 outstanding; ten days later the amount had fallen to $22,000,000; six days later it had risen to $73,000,000; at the end of the first week of November it stood at $51,000,000, and by the middle of the month it had dropped to $42,000,000.

The extraordinary feature of this object lesson of emergency currency is the rapidity with which it expanded and contracted to meet the larger or smaller requirements as they arose almost from day to day. This surprising elasticity appears to have been due to the tax, which was high enough to retire the issues as the demand for the circulating medium abated.—San Diego Union.

Actual Commercial
Needs Should Govern
Federal Appropriations.

George Clinton of Buffalo presented the New York position very well when he told the rivers and harbors congress of the way New York is rebuilding her canals and said that this State asks of the Federal government only a just share of the money appropriated for harbor improvement.

A similar attitude should be required of all States, with the condition that rivers forming natural highways between several States, such as the Mississippi and the Ohio, should be maintained by the national government.

The trouble with most demands for river improvement is that the advantage of getting a Federal appropriation is given more consideration than actual commercial needs. What the Mississippi requires, for example, is not a 14-foot channel, but the maintenance of a fairly uniform channel, free from obstructions, and the uniform strengthening of the banks against floods. The 14-foot idea is based on the dream of letting ocean and lake shipping into the river. That dream never will be realized, because, even if the channel is provided, it never would pay the ocean or lake vessel to make the voyage.—Buffalo Express.

Women Suffragists in England Are Making Most Strenuous Campaign

Break Up Public Meeting

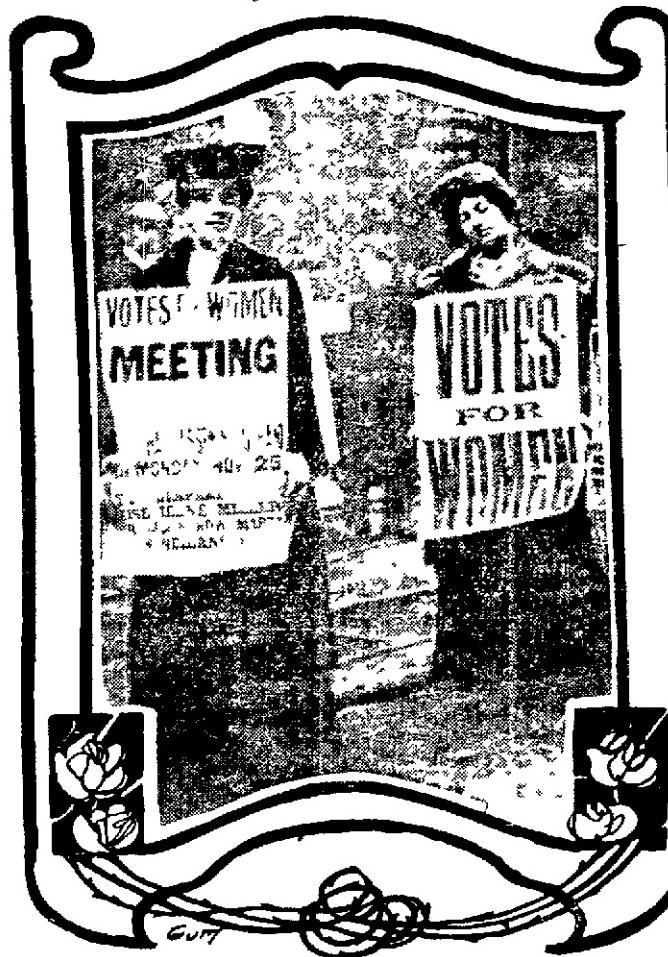

The first step in London of the women suffrage campaign is to protest against man-made laws at the police courts throughout the country. One day recent a woman paraded outside a police court in London with sandwich boards strapped to her shoulders and words in the past their cause in bold lettering.

Often will marching down the street the women suffragists are subjected to a ringing of gongs from cabmen omnibus drivers and small boys.

At a recent meeting when the Right Hon. H. J. Gladstone attempted to address his constituents in Zion hall Brixton he was effectively prevented by women suffragists who raised great discord and swarmed over the speakers chair. The men on the rostrum fled.

Tailor-Made Jacket Comes To Delight

Women who cannot wear the long coat costumes will be pleased with the return of the jacket in tailor made costumes which is just a trifle longer than the waist and neatly rounded over the hips. It is one style which, if properly made, is the picture of perfection. A neat suit could be fashioned on the heavy twilled blue serge and if trimmed around the jacket and skirt with two rows of black silk braid the effect would be pleasing in something neat pretty and simple. The coat can be made with an open front without collar or lapels or the single or double front portion may be added if desired. Usually the upper row of braid on the skirt is broken in line the ends turning sharply up on the seams where they are finished in points or a neat scroll. But it is noticeable that all braid arrangements are produced in angles and not many curves or twists.

? Why Not Smile ?

It is wonderful what an effect a bright look or smile may have on one we meet. If we only knew just how much good it may do we should always try to carry smiles about with us. A warm smile a look of sympathy are things that cost nothing and we know from experience how just one may brighten a whole day. Life is hard at best so let us do all we can to brighten the lives of others and thus brighten our own lives.

As an example Mrs. Wilson opened the door of her apartment to welcome her husband when the bulldog rushed past her into the hall in an attempt to attack a dog belonging to occupants of the flat above. Wilson stepped inside the hall just in time to grasp Jack by the collar. The dog turned on his master viciously grasping him by the right wrist and sinking his teeth deep into the flesh. Then despite the efforts of Wilson and his wife Jack hung on with bulldog to nails.

Wilson managed to pry the dog's jaws loose after several minutes of struggling during which blood from his wounds had covered the floor and walls. The dog however did not give up the fight. He sprang at Wilson's throat knocking him down. In a wild fit of the animal Wilson exposed his left side which the dog caught in his fangs like jaws.

The man was severely wounded from loss of blood and his exertions. Mrs. Wilson grasped the dog's jaws in vain, and was about to run for help.

I don't think I did anything unusual said Mrs. Wilson modestly. And I can't help thinking that old Jack must have thought all the time he was protecting me. Of course he didn't recognize Mr. Wilson or he never would have been so vicious.

Get one or three bayonets that hang over the mantel gasped Wilson. We must kill him.

You are too weak to handle it exclaimed Mrs. Wilson rushing up with the weapon in her hand. Where shall I thrust him?

By this time Wilson had the dog down his knee on his body. Here right here, thrust in with all your might he exclaimed feeling above the dog's heart.

With a such hand Mrs. Wilson thrust the bayonet through the dog's body.

Jack is gradually released from his grip and he kicked a few times while his blood mingled with that of his master on the floor. In a few seconds he was dead.

I don't think I did anything unusual said Mrs. Wilson modestly. Jack was dead but when it came to a question of Jack or my husband surviving the animal conflict of course I forgot all my love for Jack. And I can't help thinking that old Jack must have thought all the time he was protecting me. Of course he didn't recognize Mr. Wilson or he never would have been so vicious.

As an example Mrs. Wilson opened the door of her apartment to welcome her husband when the bulldog rushed past her into the hall in an attempt to attack a dog belonging to occupants of the flat above. Wilson stepped inside the hall just in time to grasp Jack by the collar. The dog turned on his master viciously grasping him by the right wrist and sinking his teeth deep into the flesh. Then despite the efforts of Wilson and his wife Jack hung on with bulldog to nails.

Wilson managed to pry the dog's jaws loose after several minutes of struggling during which blood from his wounds had covered the floor and walls. The dog however did not give up the fight. He sprang at Wilson's throat knocking him down. In a wild fit of the animal Wilson exposed his left side which the dog caught in his fangs like jaws.

The man was severely wounded from loss of blood and his exertions. Mrs. Wilson grasped the dog's jaws in vain, and was about to run for help.

President Believes That Pacific Coast Is Not Properly Protected

WASHINGTON Dec 24.—The members of the California delegation held an important conference with President Roosevelt in the White House yesterday, the object of which appears to establish these two facts:

The fleet of Admiral Evans will be ordered to return home from San Francisco by the Eastern route through the Suez canal.

The coast defense of the Pacific will be amplified and strengthened as a necessary protective contingency because of this disposition of the fleet.

The immediate object of the conference was to consider the necessity for as large an appropriation as possible for Pacific coast ports. This the President allowed to be made public. There is no intimation that any emergency was considered imminent but it is regarded by the naval experts as conclusive evidence that the President thought every effort must be made to render these ports as unassassable as possible. The deduction drawn by the naval experts that special effort in this direction would not now be made if the ships or any large proportion of them were to be allowed to remain on the Pacific station.

RECORDS MADE

The War Department records show that the harbor defenses of San Francisco, Puget Sound, San Diego, San Pedro and certain inlets whose names are not given were surveyed by experts with the view of locating the proper mine fields. In the reports which were closed about a month ago the coast defense authorities held that the system was perfect. No damage was anticipated in Puget Sound and San Francisco was regarded as impregnable.

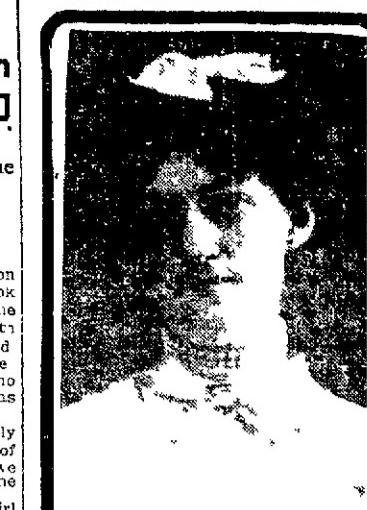

Owing to the fact that a number of vessels had been lost in the last year, a deputation of several hours was convened. The wrong names were drawn first by Clerk Louis Rulph who explained that he had not been informed that the names were all.

THOSE DRAWN

The following are the thirty from among whom the grand jury will be selected:

E. B. Deming, William Park, Manual C. George, E. M. Hall, Joseph Court, Hon. M. McMurtry, Charles Evans, Hunsaker, C. C. Sturm, H. H. Judson, A. C. Hodges, W. E. Farino, Marion G. CENTURYS-WEBSTERS ARE READY FOR GAME

Great interest has been worked up in the match game of American football between the Century and Webster Athletic clubs, which is scheduled for Recreation Park, Alameda, at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon.

In the line-up of the Century's are some fine players, and the players of the team have been practicing faithfully since they were defeated by the Reliance Athletic eleven. Particular attention has been paid to the forward pass by the Century players. It was this sort of play that worked the downfall of the Century eleven in their contest with the Reliance Club, and profiting by that experience, they have developed the play in their own ranks.

The Webster line-up contains many good line smashers, and they will depend a great deal on straight football to win for them.

The Centurys will have their regular quarterback, Moir, (no relation to the Gunner) running their team for them, and they expect to do better against the Websters than they did with the Reliance Club.

The revised rules of 1907 will govern the game and the players expect to give a good demonstration of the sport as played under the new rules.

STANLEY KETCHEL TALKS FIGHT WHILE IN CHICAGO

Interest Increasing in Attell-Moran Contest; Coffroth Making Supreme Effort With Contest--Nelson-McFarland Match.

BY EDDIE SMITH.

Stanley Ketchel has reached Chicago and has started talking like a wild man, the latest rambling being that he will try and force Joe Gans to meet him. Ketchel is a 160-pounder and not a pound less, while Gans is a 133-pounder. Is it any wonder he will try to force the colored wonder into a match?

Ketchel has often boasted that regoes are made to order for him to beat. This statement he has often made in the presence of the writer. Now if this is a fact, why pick on a small fellow like Gans when there is a colored man of his own weight by the name of Sam Langford not further away than Los Angeles? But that is a goose of another color. However, Samuel is willing

As the time for the Owen-Moran-Attell contest grows nearer and holiday shopping eases off, the people who are not regular followers of the game of bantam are beginning to take an interest in the coming championship affair.

The regulars, or boxing fans as some would call them, are always well versed on the coming and past events pugilistic and like the follower of the race horses he generally has the info right on tap at a moment's notice. The writer has often noticed that each championship contest that takes place brings out men who never go to a contest other than the ones they think are between champions. The coming contest, which will be the first of the new year, will definitely settle the claim to the feather-weight championship of the world.

Moran has been recognized as the champion of England for some time, while Attell has been looked upon as the world's champion, although he has never won a clear claim to the title. Moran being the contender in the coming contest the fans are more interested in what his chances of victory are. He appears to be as confident of winning as a fighter could be. He seems to think that he will prove as fast as Attell in owing to the fact that he was successful in stopping Frankie Nell while the bantam Attell could do was to get the decision over him after twenty rounds of hard fighting, has made him believe that he is a better puncher than the Ghetto boy.

The day that Moran and Attell signed articles for their contest Moran remarked that he would prove a surprise to Attell if the latter thought he had a correct line on his ability by his work in the Nell contest. The sturdy little Britisher prided himself with an over-abundance of enthusiasm the other day when to king in the writer about his chimes with the clever Hebrew fighter.

"Some people are of the opinion that I had to extend myself to my best efforts to beat Nell," said the little elbow. "The truth of the matter is, however, that when it became apparent to me in the early rounds of the bout that I was holding Nell safely, I simply took things as they came and used precaution not to be hit with a stray punch that might put me away and at the same time gradually heat the game Frankie's into submission. I knew he was a game, strong fellow and I took no chances."

The meaning of all such talk on the part of the English warrior, simply means that he is anxious to have it known that he is very confident that he will be declared the winner in the coming contest.

When the match was made Attell wanted the weight fixed at 122 pounds at the ringside, but to this sort of agreement both Coffroth and Moran objected. Coffroth would not handle the contest with a ringside weight and Moran announced that he would not make 122 at the ringside, as he was of the opinion that ringside weighing was a farce.

The weight that the men finally agreed on was 120 pounds two and one-half hours before the bout. The fact that Moran was the one to object to the ringside weight being taken has made the fans a trifle worried over his weight. Professor Jimmy Kelly, his trainer, and Moran, both claim that Owen has been making less than 120 pounds in England and that he will make this weight without hurting himself in the least.

Of course this information is a training camp story and can be taken only for what it is worth, but the actions of those about the camp would lead one to believe that Moran was coming to the limit set in the articles with all the ease that could be expected. It was announced last night that he was down to 121 pounds, but this is hardly so, for the trainers would hesitate about taking him so low this length of time from the battle.

Coffroth has visited both training camps and has seen the men weigh, he is not the least worried over the weight question, so it would appear that there is little to fear on that score.

It might be well to say here that Coffroth has set about the arrangements of this contest with a determination to outdo his previous efforts. James, to tell the truth, is taking advantage of the conditions that his rivals have promoted shows under, and realizing that the proper handing of the spectators is what will bring him the money with this and future shows can be depended upon to make things go as smoothly as it is possible to have them. Lord Harry Fitzhugh Keegan McFarland, friend and confidant-in-chief of the astute promoter and commander-in-chief of the gallery dollars, is also working with Coffroth and with two such great heads there is little doubt but that the arrangements for the New Year's Day contest will be almost perfection.

It now looks as if Packy McFarland and Battling Nelson would come together in San Francisco during the early spring, perhaps on Washington's birthday. The fighters have about come to terms and Coffroth has signified a willingness to handle the affair.

This contest would make a great crowd, the people here are anxious to see McFarland in action and the Battler has yet to disappoint the patrons of one of his fights. But does not always win, but his game struggle has each time made him admirers and there is not a man in San Francisco today that will not admit that he is a highly named fighter, the sobriquet of "The Durand Dane," being a very appropriate one.

McFarland was being boasted by Nelson some time ago as the coming champion; in GREAT many sports are now pondering the fable of the grasshopper and the ant, which relates that Mr. Grasshopper built his sad winter-fest to Mr. Ant, whereupon Mr. Ant, like all antsfolk tells Mr. Grasshopper that he sang all summer while he, Mr. Ant, was commercially inclined in hoarding a winter's store. Mr. Grasshopper not being a sport of true feathers, failed of an answer in telling Mr. Ant that he had his wings. We are glad that most sportists folks have more wit than Mr. Grasshopper, but it is not within our recollection where folks of the ledger have usually shown more spirit than Mr. Ant.

"Kid" Scaler After a Match Teddy Jr. Sees A Prize Fight

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 24.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., has become an enthusiastic fight follower and sees nearly all the bouts around Boston. He witnessed the recent bout between Dave Deschler and Freddie Welch and visited Welch in the latter's dressing room after the battle.

Roosevelt watched the fight in company with George N. Cohan, and sympathized with Welch, thinking that the Bostonian had been overreached, but when Welch's Duschler unmercifully young, Teddy grew enthusiastic and shock hands with the Albion after the fight.

Young Roosevelt is learning to box from his father, and is a good boxer, and it is said of him that he is already the equal of any fellow his weight in college.

LETTERS FROM THE SPORTS TO DEAR OLD SANTA CLAUS

BY T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

Sandy Claws: Dear Old Side Kick—if yous ain't afraid dat your soup strainer'll get singed, you can drop around at the Wills tonight. My stocking will be hung under da electric bulb. Drop in a couple of imported Frankfurters. If youse find any holes in me sock, jest fill em wid holes in a doughnut. Don't forget to tell de gang dat me grand social will be held next Saturday night, and dat'll be a swell function.

Your Little One,

MYLES MONTMORENCY (COCKEY) O'BRIEN.

Dear Old Kid—Just never mind any Teddy Bears or anything like that. Let those trinkets run for Box Car McGinn, but if you love me, just take a peek at an overnight, and mark out the winners. I ain't seen the back of bookmaker's box since Bob Fitzsimmons was a boy. Don't forget to slip me a couple of winners.

Yours Lovingly,

BILLY ROCHE.

Dear Kris Kringle—You old pal, I'm Jerry to you monacher. Now if you want to be right with me just ship me a couple of frog skins. Double X's would be just about the size. Don't Jep me, old pal. Are you Rands?

"CAP" JAMES FEENEY.

Dear Santa Claus—Please don't forget to slip some of last year's Oakland ball team some quack poison. Cyanide of potassium would do.

Yours,

THE OAKLAND BASEBALL FAN.

Friend Santa—Try and make the public believe I didn't make anything out of the Honolulu trip. That trip was for charity, and you know old pal, charity begins at home.

Yours,

MIKE FISHER.

Old Cockie Wax—Just slip in when the room's empty and cut a slice off the beak. That will be about all. Thine,

TOM CORBETT.

Dear Santa—Me bloomin' ear's broke! If you've one lyin' 'round you might slip it to me. Tell the dear public that I'm as young as ever.

Yours with tears,

BOB FITZSIMMONS.

Dear Santa—Mah old heath's delight, just choromph Tommy Burns and send him to America. I'll pay all de expressage. My heath jes burns for a sight of dat dead cheef.

Yours Raw specifically,

JACK JOHNSON.

Santy, Old Pal—You know I can toss the bull, but I'm not going to slip you any. If you regard your little one, send me a couple of "boobs" and do it at once.

Yours forever,

MANNHEM GREENBURG.

Dear Santa—if you wouldn't mind it, just slip all the other referees some painless form of death. Chloroform would do but allow me the field.

Yours,

SAM BERGER.

Mighty Santa—Please slip me a couple of wooden ducks. There ain't no more of the real kind.

Thine always,

STUART GIMMELL.

Dear St. Nick—Scour the woods, and see if you can find another fat head like Pat Nelson for me. This, I consider, is a modest request, so don't fall me.

Yours,

BILLY NOLAN.

Dear Santa—Since I brought home the bacon, the lightweight title has become a grievous bundle. I gave it a quaff a few and can't think of any more. Please leave a slip of paper in my work with the name of the man you think ought to have the title of lightweight champion.

Jim Jeffries is the only one that is barred.

Yours,

JOE GANS.

P. S.—You might also leave a set of charmed dice.

Dear Santa—Just leave a couple of sacks of oats in my sock.

Yours truly,

JACK ADKINS.

Colorado-Nebraska Football Game TOMORROW

BERKELEY, Dec. 24.—Bill Reid, the famous football player and coach of Harvard University, has been selected to referee the match game between the eleven from the United States warships Colorado and Nebraska, which is scheduled for California Field tomorrow afternoon. Great interest is manifested in the game by the colleagues, who want to see the new rules played by competent teams.

The contest promises to be quite a social event, as all of the navy officers will be on hand to cheer their respective teams. The Nebraska is one of the foremost football enthusiasts in the American navy. The success of the Nebraska team has been largely due to the fact that the members of the crew will entertain a number of friends at the game Christmas. It is a safe bet that he will be found on the side lines.

Colorado's team will be backed by the crew of the four battleships.

There will be a great deal of practice and a great deal of socializing and a great deal of fun.

The Colorado team feels confident of putting a stop to the Nebraska's winning streak.

"Ach Mein Leiber Rudy" Gets Match

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—At last George Mamie has started up an opponent for himself. The man who will next oppose Mamie in the squared circle will be Rudolph Unholz, and the pair are scheduled to fight ten rounds on January 3. The weight is to be 135 pounds at 3 o'clock and the purse is to be divided at 75 and 25. The fight will be under the draw rule recently passed by the City Council and the men will wear eight ounce gloves.

Unholz is the champion of the Transvaal and in that country is considered the whole "veldt" when it comes to fighting.

BELL THEATER GIVES GOOD BILL THIS WEEK

High class vaudeville is ruling at the Bell Theater this week. The opening performance was given yesterday and in the course of the evening the Nelson-Farina group of performers performed daring feats and seemingly risk their lives, but never a hit or mistake.

Theater, Wm. H. Bell, Van Allen, gives a new comedy act, "Van Allen Gymnasium." Boxing gloves, dumb bells, Indian clubs, baseball bats and golf sticks are scattered about the gym, each article is produced. Each of clever comedians can supply an original musical sketch.

"Daughter of the Gods" presented by Mrs. Fred Gandy and Miss Vera Henderson is good.

Trivedi and Robinson give firework imitations. Wilbur Amos, the juggler and his troupe is a marvel in its line.

Two rods of motion pictures finish the performance.

Next week there is coming to the Bell, the greatest of all the greats in the combination of acts on the "Sister" and "Com-sider" circuit. It starts intact while making a tour of the entire circuit, stretching from New York to San Francisco and return.

RETIRED CAPITALIST GETS 3-YEAR'S SENTENCE

STOCKTON, Dec. 24.—A. C. Durwan, retired capitalist, was sentenced to three years in prison for burglary. His crime consisted of systematically robbing tenants who conducted a store in a building in which he lived.

DEALER PAYS $4000 FOR A RARE STAMP

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Philatelists in New York are commenting on the sale of a stamp, the other day, by a Philatelist, located in St. Paul, Minnesota, to a postmaster for $4000. The stamp is a postmark issued in Alexander, Va., in 1843, and is on blue paper.

Two of these specimens are known on blue paper, and this is the only known specimen on blue paper. It was found on an old letter among some family treasures by Mrs. H. P. Faust of Alexander, Va. It was sold for $4000.

Trivedi and Robinson give firework imitations. Wilbur Amos, the juggler and his troupe is a marvel in its line.

Two rods of motion pictures finish the performance.

EXCURSION RATES TO DENVER, COLORADO SPRINGS, PUEBLO and TRINIDAD, COLORADO

NEXT WEEK: "CLEOPATRA."

RHEUMATIC FOLKS!

Are You Sure Your Kidneys Are Well?

Many rheumatic attacks are due to acid in the blood. But the drug of the kidneys is to remove all urea acid from the blood. Its presence there shows the kidneys are inactive. Don't daily with urine and solvents! You might go on till doom day with them, but until you cure the kidneys you will never get well. Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove acid, but cure the kidneys, and then all disease disappears. The doctor attests it in constant communication with the attorney-general at Washington, and while he will not discuss the matter, it is certain that he has been presenting to the grand jury evidence in the sugar cases.

ACCUSED OF FORGING MINING CLAIM NOTES

HELENA, Mont., Dec. 24.—A third indictment against an employee of the surveyor-general's office in Montana was returned yesterday by U. S. Commissioner A. Haven Justice charged in another indictment of conspiracy with O. C. Dallas and J. D. McLeod, and alleges that he forced the field notes of the New York Gold mining district were set aside and given to Doan's Kidney Pills not only remove acid, but cure the kidneys, and then all disease disappears. OLD MINE IS PROVING RICH

GOLDFIELD. Dec. 24.—Another old-time mine is making good for the present owners. The Garfield, situated on a high divide between Mina and Haworth, produced millions in the early days and was considered one of the big mines of the West, being in many ways similar to the Mizpah, the mine which made Tonopah known throughout the world. The mine was owned by English capitalists and was operated profitably until a fault occurred. After considerable work trying to relocate the ledge the management gave up work and the mine laid idle for twenty years.

WALL STREET.

NEW YORK. Dec. 24.—Opening prices of stocks were 1 per cent lower today, with the exception of the American Electric, which point and American Smelting, 3%, none of the losses exceeded a half. There was a spilling of small gains. Business was so light that the stock market was closed at 1 p.m.

The market sagged further, the United demands to the present slight money rate leaving the market unbroken. General Electric, up 1/2 per cent; Auto, 1/2 per cent; and the Smith & Railway Stock, Readings, Union Pacific, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Northwestern and American locomotives 1 to 1 1/2 per cent; Standard Oil advanced 1 and Krocuk & Co., 1/2 per cent; and the Adair and Des Moines 1/2.

The market, in the second hour, was near record, with the American Electric, National Power, preferred; General Electric, railroad two; Borden were steady; Rockwood, up 1/2 per cent; and Standard gradually made up its losses, notably American Smelting. Otherwise the list was virtually unchanged.

Except for liquidation in American Locomotive, which cost it three points, the market was practically uniform, and Naschae, Chattaqua and St. Louis, and American Electric, St. Paul preferred, jumped 2 points in all.

The market was heavy. There was a slight sag now in the price movements.

MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK. Dec. 24.—Money on call, $1,000 per cent, steady; 6 per cent offered at 4 per cent; one day, 12 1/2 days, 12 per cent; six months, 13 1/2 per cent.

SAN FRANCISCO. Dec. 24.—Close.

Prime mercantile paper, 7 1/2% per cent, steady exchange, weak, with actual business in bankers' bills at $1,000 per cent; for deposit and cashier's checks, 7 1/2%; for cashier's orders, 7 1/2%; but after 52 days, Mexican dollars, 4 1/2%; government bonds, steady; rail road bonds, steady.

WHEAT PITS.

CHICAGO. Dec. 24.—Wheat today opened higher but soon rallied. May opened 14 1/2¢ per cent, at $1,000, to 14 1/4¢ and then advanced to 14 1/2¢ per cent.

MAY BE MURDER CASES

Watchman and Chinese Meet
Sudden Death at Grass Valley.

GRASS VALLEY, Dec. 24.—The finding of the body of Charles Bowen, a watchman at the Kentucky Flat Gravel Mine five miles south of here yesterday and the burning to death Sunday of a Chinese, Ho Quai, in a cabin in the same vicinity may develop in the unravelling of a double crime to cover robbery. When Ho Quai's cabin was discovered to have been burned and the body found in the ruins it was thought he had set fire to his cabin while smoking opium. But this morning, when the body of Bowen, an aged man, was found on the trail near the same spot with the skull crushed and every evidence of his having been killed and robbed, it was remembered that Ho Quai had considerable gold in nuggets and dust concealed in his cabin.

The Coroner believes both men were murdered and that the deed was committed by roughs who have been attracted to the section about Marysville, and later drifted toward this district.

FLEES FROM HER FORMER HUSBAND

Heiress Declares She Could Not Face Bigamist Who Hypnotized Her.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Sarah Delano-Deane-Reid, the Mamaronick heiress is hastening to California to escape the importunities of the ex-husband, from whom she was taken and thrust into Bloomingdale on her elopement day, two years ago.

This ex-husband, Captain Deane-Reid, formerly of the British army, later professional whip on the great Delano estate, has recently been released from prison, where he served a year for bigamy.

Fearing that he may again seek to win her heart, though the marriage that once bound them has been annulled, Miss Delano will hide herself for years in the West.

It failed to me, he bewitched me so I never would have married him, she said as she started away. Now I do not bear to see his face again.

With her departure to California Miss Delano takes "The Great American National Story," which mixed romance with tragedy and attracted interest throughout the country. She was a belle of 21 years with a fortune of millions and a large family. Her husband, the statesman Mamaronick, when in November, 1905, the dashing captain, Albert Deane-Reid, appeared in England had been an officer of the guards but was since released, had forced him to quit the army and the Delano family to America as an expert horseman looking for a job.

FASCINATED—THEY EloP.
Miss Delano met him while he was an instructor in the Metropolitan Riding Academy, and she became fascinated by his handsome face and sturdy bearing. He succeeded in winning the most of her favor. Before long he had induced her to get him a place as whip for her three brothers, Victor, Albert and Frederick, at their big stock farm at Greek Hill, on the outskirts of Mamaronick.

Just a month after he became the Deane whip, Deane-Reid prevailed upon the young woman to elope with him. They went away from the city early in the morning and hastened to New York, were married by Rev. D. B. Thompson, of 49 East Eighty-fifth street, and then boldly returned to Mamaronick.

When the secret was learned of the marriage they determined to nip the match even at the cost of tremendous scandal. Mrs. Deane-Reid was seized by the brothers and dragged off to the asylum, despite the desperate struggle of her husband.

FIND FORMER WIFE.

Deane-Reid declared that he would fight the battle of his life to win her back. He might have done so but the brothers sent lawyers into Canada and there found the woman who claimed to be his former wife and a child, Thille, the offspring of a previous marriage.

They came into court and told of a wedding in Manchester, England, in the '90s, when Deane-Reid had just become a gallant officer of the guards.

Deane-Reid was condemned to 15 months' imprisonment for a year and Sarah Delano-Deane-Reid in Bloomingdale experienced a change of heart.

S. P. IS TO CUT FORCE

Order Affects Employees From East to West.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 24.—That there is to be a great reduction of the force employed in the local railroad shops after the first of the year was admitted today by local officials of the company, who say that the retrenchment is to be general on the Harriman system. In an interview an official, who is a position to know whereof he speaks, said:

"The orders for the general lay-off Christmas week came from New York, not San Francisco, and apply to the entire system, not Sacramento alone. It is purely an economical measure, paving the way for a reduction of force. All construction work on the roads has ceased; construction train crews, building crews and section crews have been laid off for the winter. The company will retain only enough men to keep the cars rolling; work on the roads will be done only in cases of emergency. Where large crews have been busy on sections, watchmen and patrols only will remain."

FINANCIAL UNREST.

"The financial unrest, although the holidays in this State have ceased, is general. The company will lay out no more money than necessary, and in this is following the lead of all other branches of business. Then this is Presidential year, and there is some uneasiness in the corporations on that account."

"The company has been manufacturing material and equipment for a year ahead. The work in the machine department and the blacksmith shops is always for many months ahead. There is enough material of all kinds in the shops and yards to last the company for a year at least."

RENTS INCREASE COST OF LIVING

Speakers Declare That Remedy Must Be Had and Offer Suggestions.

F. Latus, in his address before the mass meeting held last night at the Builders' Exchange, 550 Eighteenth street, laid all responsibility for the present cost of living to the increased rents since the earthquake.

"The rents," he said, "after April 18, were the first things to go up, and places that could before have been secured for $30, $40, rose by April 21 to $70, $80 and $90. This charge resulted in immediate rises in commodities, and led to an equal footing had to set a new wage schedule. Now if we can restore rents again to a normal condition, I feel confident that products and commodities will adjust themselves. I am against the decreasing of wages, because above all else sets the pace of prosperity, and accordingly as they are high or low, so in proportion will our country be in prosperity or depression."

The present cost of living, according to T. Staib, could not be reduced by the efforts of a mass meeting, for he held that the regulation of prices are not set arbitrarily, but depend upon supply and demand. He advised that "the only way to fight a monopoly is to form another trust opposition."

WANT CHANGE.

While all the other members believed that present conditions are abnormal and require a change, suggestions were few as to the best means that should be used in effecting a change.

T. D. Parsons declared that the present movement was not intended to strike the labor-unions, any more than the merchant, manufacturer, builder and landowner. He said that "an open shop means that the employers will grind employees down until they cannot live and the same tendency would exist towards the employer by a closed shop. Each, when they cannot meet on a common ground, tend to crush the other." He advised that a skilled man should be paid for his services in proportion as he is better than the ordinary laborer. Among the other speakers were W. H. Brown, George C. Nall, P. H. Plunkerton, J. P. Finger and R. E. Wurst.

It was decided to determine the time of the next public meeting after the committees from the different labor, civic and business organizations met and formulated some positive plan of action.

POSTMASTER AT OCEAN PARK IS ARRESTED

OCEAN PARK, Dec. 24.—Postmaster Charles E. Lovelace of this city, yesterday surrendered himself into custody in the United States District Court at Los Angeles upon a charge of embezzlement. His action followed an investigation of the accounts of the postoffice by Inspector Stewart, who had been at work several days. According to guarded accounts obtained from Federal officials, the inspector found a shortage in receipts of between $1000 and $2000.

Lovelace, who was released on bonds in the sum of $4000, was interviewed, but said he was unable to account for the absence of the funds. Miss Alice Dietrich, assistant to Lovelace, has taken over the duties of the office under instruction of Inspector Stewart. Her husband was a Mexican War veteran.

DERELICT LAUNCH IS FLOATING BOTTOM UP

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 24.—Captain Schell of the naval bureau brigantine brings to this port news of the disappearance of a floating derelict three miles west of San Clemente Island. The boat was last seen June 1, last, having been adrift for six weeks. It was bottom side up, with no sign of life aboard. The discovery was made by the captain of a coasting vessel while in passing near the island. He found a man, John Gardner, of Gardiner, who was the sole survivor. The vessel was a wreck, and although the coaster made diligent search, it was unable to find the name of the vessel. The coaster cannot be identified by local shipping

MASONS FIND SKELETON OF HUNTER IN SLOUGH

PALO ALTO, Dec. 24.—A skeleton was found by masons Saturday afternoon while engaged in work on a warehouse near Mountain View. The warehouse is situated near what is known as the bay shore. The masons were engaged in repairing damage that the building suffered during the earthquake. The head of one of the ribs was broken, and it was discovered that would fit in the discover of the unfortunate, who was probably a hundred feet out on the marshes alone. The bay shore is very uneven and regarded as treacherous by local sportsmen.

WANT BIBLE IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Recent Action by Official Stirrs Los Angeles Ministers Into Campaign.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—The Los Angeles Ministerial Union has started a campaign toward having restrictions on the use of the Bible in the public schools of California removed with the ultimate object of having Christ taught therein. The first step will be a communication to the officials of the various Christian denominations throughout the State with a request that they appoint at their earliest convenience three commissioners to co-operate along the lines proposed.

Strong support for the Bible in the schools is coming up in the leading churches here since the recent instructions of Superintendent E. C. Moore caused the elimination of the name of Christ from the Christmas exercises.

In an unusual sermon last night, Rev. Baker P. Lee, rector of Christ Church, asserted that the time is not far off when the sermon on the Mount will be taught as a fundamental in the schools.

HOPE TO PREVENT INTERMENT ALIVE

Los Angeles Council Forbids Embalming Bodies Without Official Tests.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—Hereafter no embalming fluid will be injected into a human body in this city until the Board of Health has been notified that embalming is desired. Health Officer Powers believes that in the past persons have been interred alive here, as they have elsewhere, and asked the Council to pass an ordinance requiring him to be notified as a precautionary measure.

The officer's aim is to prevent possible poisoning during suspended animation, involuntary murder by undertakers or suffocation in the grave. If the cause of death is not positively known the Health Department will investigate before allowing embalming.

Goes After Germs.

How Hyomei Does Its Work in Curing Catarrh.

Nature's remedy for catarrhal troubles is the oils and balsams found in Hyomei. It is a specific, not a cure-all. It has but one mission, the cure of catarrh.

The natural way of curing a disease is always the scientific way and the scientific way of curing catarrh is the simple way, with Hyomei.

Catarrh is a germ disease and can be cured only by using Hyomei, the treatment that reaches and destroys all catarrhal germs.

Breatheth through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, Hyomei's medication reaches the most remote air cells of the nose, throat and lungs, going after the disease germs wherever present. Destroying them and preventing their growth, thus making catarrhal trouble impossible.

There is no dangerous stomach dosing when Hyomei is used. It is solely an inhalation treatment, prepared specially to kill the catarrhal germs.

Begin its use at once, and see how quickly it gives relief and lasting cure.

We positively guarantee Hyomei, for should you buy a complete outfit, price $1.00, and be dissatisfied with results your money will be refunded. Hyomei is sold by druggists everywhere. Write for literature. Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.
